Philosophy of the On-Line Journal of Nursing Informatics(OJNI)

The OJNI is committed to enhancing nursing knowledge on nursing informatics for nurses working in diverse settings.

The OJNI will provide nurses with an electronic format to share findings, experience, perceptions, knowledge, and wisdom with nursing colleagues involved in all facets of nursing informatics.

The OJNI wants to exploit the power of cyberspace in order to create an electronic nursing informatics community that provides both virtually accessible and timely information about nursing informatics globally.

The OJNI will further enhance the speed of cybercommunications through an expedited editorial process that provides rapid turnaround and publication times.

The OJNI recognizes the importance of both the academic and practice-based perspectives in nursing informatics. Therefore, article submissions will be encouraged from all facets of nursing informatics.

The OJNI is committed to scholarly excellence. Thus, the Journal will maintain a high standard for peer-review, and when necessary, the editorial staff will attempt to provide assistance to authors as a means of eliciting high quality manuscripts suitable for publication.

Aim of the On-Line Journal of Nursing Informatics

The aim of the On-Line Journal of Nursing Informatics (OJNI) is to publish peer-reviewed, original, high quality scientific papers, review articles, practice-based articles, and databases related to nursing informatics.
